

GOLDFIELDS LAND AND SEA COUNCIL

Heritage Anthropologist

The Goldfields Land & Sea Council ("GLSC") is the recognised Native Title Representative Body for the Goldfields Esperance region of Western Australia. It represents applicant groups in native title claimant proceedings conducted in the Federal Court of Australia and the National Native Title Tribunal and undertakes to protect Aboriginal heritage. The head office is in Kalgoorlie with a branch office in Perth.

The GLSC currently has an exciting opening for a Heritage Anthropologist to join the team, based in either Perth or Kalgoorlie.

This role is important within the GLSC's operational structure. The prime responsibilities will be the successful co-ordination and conduct of heritage surveys. Other responsibilities include providing assistance to external researchers engaged by the GLSC and working closely with GLSC legal, research and field staff.

Applicants should have a degree in anthropology (honors level or higher would be preferable). Experience in conducting field research with Aboriginal people is desirable. The successful candidate will need to be well organised and have an understanding and appreciation of Aboriginal culture. Well-developed communication skills and a willingness to travel extensively are essential.

Based on a large regional centre in one of the most significant mineral producing regions in the world, this appointment represents challenging and rewarding opportunities.

Applicants need to have permanent Australian residency or citizenship.

Salary and Conditions

An attractive salary will be negotiated with the successful candidate, taking into account qualifications and experience. Salary sacrifice arrangements are available and a district allowance. Assistance with relocation and removal costs may be negotiated with applicants from outside the Goldfields Region.

A position description can be obtained from the GLSC's Administration Manager, Charmaine Fitzpatrick Tel: (08) 9091 1661, Fax (08) 9091 1662, Email: charmaine.fitzpatrick@glc.com.au.

Written applications marked 'Confidential' should be directed to: The Administration Manager, Goldfields Land & Sea Council, P O Box 10006, Kalgoorlie WA 6430.

Applications close cob Monday 13 May 2013
