

Community Support Officer-Kalgoorlie

July 10, 2013

The Aboriginal Family Violence Law Service in WA is seeking expressions of interest for the above role.

AFLS is a not for profit organisation that assists families with problems of domestic violence. Our aim is to help prevent family violence for safer Communities across Western Australia.

We are seeking a Community Support Officer to act as a key liaison between victims of Aboriginal family violence and the services of Aboriginal Family Law Services (AFLS), promoting the service within your regional communities- referring clients to AFLS solicitors for legal representation, undertaking community legal education and general support services.

To apply send your resume to humanresources@afls.org.au or for the attention Human Resources, Jasmine Taylor – AFLS Po Box 5254 East Victoria Park WA 6981.

Please obtain a copy of the position description and selection criteria from our website www.afls.org.au.

Applications should include a letter of introduction and a Resume with two (2) referees. A National Police Clearance and a Working With Children Check is required. For the right candidate we can offer an attractive salary package with generous entitlements.

Closing

date: 19 July 2013